

General Data Protection Regulation Policy

One of Guardian Goalposts Limited main goals is to maintain the highest level of security for its customers and employees, especially when it comes to protection of personal data.

Guardian Goalposts wishes to inform existing and potential customers alike how we treat personal data in a clear and understandable way.

Storage of Personal Data

Guardian Goalposts registers and stores personal data in the online shop in order to handle orders, and requests from customers. The personal data is stored on secure servers located in the UK.

We save name, address, telephone number and e-mail address in our databases.

We save the customers' invoices, credit notes and payment information in order to be able to offer good customer service.

When paying by credit card, we co-operate with an authorized payment service company, who controls the validity of the card directly with the bank. The payment service company treats the data in compliance with international security standards issued by the card companies Visa and MasterCard. The payment information is treated in a secure way and Guardian Goalposts has no access to these.

Credit card information is only saved upon detailed authorization. The payment information is securely stored with our payment service supplier, and not directly with Guardian Goalposts.

Cookies.

A cookie is information about a user, and is a .txt-file, exchanged between the browser and the server. We use two sorts of cookies. In some of our web services we use "sessions-cookies", so that we can send the right web sites to the right person. The Session cookie is temporary, and it only exists so long as the browser window is open. It will be deleted when the browser, e.g. Internet Explorer is closed. For pop-ups and general web statistics we use permanent cookies, which are saved on your computer. In order to be able to develop and improve our web sites, we use statistics telling how the web site used. These statistics are only used as a summary, e.g. to see which pages and browsers are frequently used.

GDPR Policy - (continued)

Use of Personal Data

Guardian Goalposts uses customers data for the following:

- Delivery of orders.
- Communication in relation to orders, payment and offers.
- Individual marketing of our products.
- Investigations, statistics and analysis in order to improve our service.
- For legal purposes as and when required.

Guardian Goalposts does not share data when sending out marketing material. Information is only shared if requested by law enforcement agencies in relation to public authorities. We only share the data entered on our website.

When in contact with Guardian Goalposts, customers accept that we treat data according to this General Data Protection Regulation Policy.

Guardian Goalposts procedure for correction and deleting personal data

It is always possible for to change personal data registered with us, and objections to any registration in accordance with the rules concerning personal data can be made.

Guardian Goalposts save customers' data for the duration of the period in which they trade with us. According to accounting laws, we must save data for five years. We also save data in respect of product guarantee rules.

If not a customer, we save the communication only if, and for as long as it is relevant to our business model.

We save e-mail addresses unless unsubscribe notification is received.

In order to be protected against virus and other attacks, we use well-known antivirus software and firewalls.

For removal from the Guardian Goalposts database is done via the contact section on the website. www.GuardianGoalposts.com, by e-mail or by telephone.

GDPR Policy - (continued)

Guardian Goalposts' Employee's Treatment of Personal Data

Employees dealing with orders and customer service, have access to the registered personal data. In order to access this data, the users have to login with user ID and password. The password is changed and updated regularly. Any employees leaving the company are deactivated on the system, and prohibited access to the data.

Employees who are involved, have received detailed information about the rules for storage and deleting of data. Our employees know the rules for treatment of personal data and are of course bound by secrecy.

Further information

You are always welcome to contact us to discuss this further.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Neil C. Ormesher".

Neil C. Ormesher

Director

22.07.19